

Australian Army Research Centre

Presents

The Irregulars within Hybrid Warfare

A Seminar by

Major Andy Maher (S02 Emerging Threats and Opportunities)

Australian Army Research Centre

EVENT DETAILS

1230-1330 Thursday 5 March, 2020

R1 Ngunnawal Theatrette, Russell Offices

Point of Contact: andrew.maher1@defence.gov.au

SUMMARY

This Seminar will present an overview of the field of Irregular Warfare and how it integrates into today's discussion of hybrid warfare. Designed to support the Army implementation of the Decisive Action Threat Environment (DATE), this seminar aims to provide an overview of the motivations, organisation and strategies employed by Irregulars. This seminar also summarises the Irregular Warfare course developed for the Masters program in Special Operations and Irregular Warfare at the University of New South Wales, Canberra.

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Major Andrew Maher has had a particular interest in operations conducted by, with and through foreign forces, having served in Afghanistan and Iraq. In 2018-19, he served as a military fellow, lecturer and doctoral candidate with the University of New South Wales, Canberra, where he was a course convenor for the Master's level subject on Irregular Warfare. He is currently the SO2 Emerging Threats and Opportunities within the Australian Army Research Centre.